Jonathan Ater has more than 40 years of experience as a strategic advisor to business enterprises and public bodies. He works with senior managers, boards of directors, and professionals in connection with a broad array of business and policy issues, including corporate finance, mergers and acquisitions, healthcare, personnel matters, energy and raw material supply, environmental and legislative matters, property acquisition and development, commercial contracting, and dispute resolution. He has had particular experience with emerging businesses and turn arounds.

His clients include healthcare professionals and institutions; basic industries such as steel, aluminum, polysilicon, ferrosilicon, forest products, and electric utilities; and high technology companies. Many of his client companies are engaged in trade throughout the world.

Jonathan serves as principal or general counsel for several corporate entities, and the Medical Society of Metropolitan Portland. He is also an experienced arbitrator and mediator, serving under the auspices of the Arbitration Service of Portland.

Jonathan is best known for his work as a health care lawyer and health policy expert. He is listed in Best Lawyers of America and SuperLawyers. He and his wife, Deanne, are joint recipients of the 2010 Gordon and Sharon Smith New Freedom Award from the Oregon Chapter of the National Association on Mental Illness. The Medical Society of Metropolitan Portland has honored Jonathan with a Presidential Citation for his work on health reform issues.

Between 2004 and 2009, Jonathan served as vice-chair of both the Oregon Health Fund Board and the Oregon Health Policy Commission. He was a principal author of the conceptual paper behind the creation of the Oregon Health Authority in 2009. He was co-chair of the Governor's 2004 Mental Health Task Force. He has served on two working groups that advise senior management of the Oregon Department of Human Resources on mental health issues.

From 1994 to 1998, Jonathan served as chair of the Oregon Commission on Children and Families, a body focused on integrating social services, including health services, across the state. He also previously served as a member of the State Board of Higher Education and the Board of Bar Examiners.

Jonathan is a director of Axio Research Corporation, which provides biostatistical research services for pharmacology and health care research. He is a director of Metropolitan Public Defender, Inc., the largest professional public defender firm in Oregon. He is past chair of the Albertina Kerr Foundation and has served as a steward of the First Unitarian Church Foundation. In 2013, Jonathan received the Learned Hand Lifetime Achievement award from the Oregon Area Jewish Committee. The award recognizes professional excellence and contributions to the legal community.
